

NIP celebrates International Day of Light

The National Institute of Physics celebrated the International Day of Light (IDL) with a public event entitled, “Kidlap: Exhibit in Optics and Photonics” last May 16, 2023. Researchers from NIP and partner institutions demonstrated various optical effects through interactive optical setups to the delight of students and visitors. IDL highlights the importance of light and light-based technologies in achieving the goals of UNESCO -education, equality, and peace (<https://en.unesco.org/events/international-day-light>).
